

6.4.1 -Institution conducts internal and external financial audits regularly Enumerate the various internal and external audits carried out during the year with the mechanism for setting audit objections within a maximum of 200 words.

The institution possesses all the requisite tools for exemplary financial management, including a dedicated accounts division equipped with a fully digitized ECAP system. Access to the management of bank accounts is restricted to authorized personnel, ensuring security and accountability.

Tuition fees constitute the primary revenue stream for the institution, with the majority of these fees transacted in cash through the accounts office. Salaries for both teaching and non-teaching staff are disbursed exclusively through bank transfers, underscoring the institution's commitment to systematic financial practices.

The administration has designated internal and external auditors to rigorously oversee financial operations. These audits are conducted quarterly, and meticulously verified reports are forwarded to the Principal and the management for further deliberation and action.

Internal Audit:

The internal auditor diligently reviews and validates the funds accrued from admission fees and other student contributions for academic events such as conferences and workshops. Salary statements and miscellaneous payments undergo regular and comprehensive scrutiny to ensure accuracy and compliance.

External Audit:

A professional chartered accounting firm is entrusted with conducting external audits on a routine basis. To uphold transparency, the institution submits detailed income and expenditure statements for review. These external auditors meticulously examine the financial records in alignment with income tax regulations. According to the audit report, the financial year 2023-2024 has been devoid of any significant audit discrepancies, reflecting the institution's impeccable fiscal governance.
